RE: A Little Project

Hello All,

Our staff member par excellence, Jan Freeman, came up with an idea around gratitude that I'd like to run with.

While strolling through her neighborhood recently, she began to notice a multitude of handmade signs in people's windows thanking the nurses, doctors, police, first responders, et al in our city.

We would love to be able to capture some of these instances of gratitude, collect them, and compile them.

I don't have the authority to assign anyone homework projects...but if you would like to participate in this little venture, here's what I'd ask you to do.

If you're out in your neighborhood for a walk, on your way to the store, or taking care of other errands, and you happen to see one of these signs in a neighbor's window or on a door, please take a photo of it/them. Likewise if you have your own sign or perhaps would like to make one, please take a picture of that and send it to me at this email address.

I don't know how creative we'll end up being with all of your photos, who knows, maybe a collage, but when we have a good amount, we'd like to send them to the various hospitals, clinics, police and fire departments who are working so diligently through everything right now. We can let them know that not only are people throughout the city grateful for their hard work, but that our community at the San Francisco Senior Center is equally grateful for all they do.

Thank you!

Frank
